New Children's Book Introduces a Magical Encounter Between Sasquatch and Humans

BABY SASQUATCH MEETS THE HAIRLESS APES blends adventure, humor, and wonder in a story for children ages 3-5

A new book written and illustrated by Ruta Sevo gives children an empathetic and fun view of Sasquatch, by featuring the point of view of a baby Sasquatch.

A baby Sasquatch is found and taken in by humans. She sees many strange things in their world and has an adventure with the mysterious "hairless apes." It is a story about "the others" who may not be as bad as you think, and may even be fun.

Sasquatch (Bigfoot, Yeti) are obsessively popular in the Pacific Northwest. They are mysterious creatures represented by vague, scary photos and recordings of howls in the deep woods. There is a high fear factor and fascination with a "monster," although there is no concrete evidence that they exist, nor that they are violent and harmful to humans. Humans have been scared out of the woods, but mostly due to their imaginations.

The book looks at habits of humans that are funny if you were an intelligent animal observing another species: "dancing," "cupcakes," "washing things all the time," "toilets," "sitting in front of a screen."

"I wanted to show the Sasquatch sympathetically," says the author. "This is a fantasy meant to show them as benign, sympathetic and intelligent creatures. We don't really know what they are, YET."

The author is a resident of Bellingham, Washington. She has written four adult novels and a nonfiction book on New Age thought. Her long interest in the paranormal and unexplained phenomenon included a fascination for world-wide stories about Sasquatch/Bigfoot/Yeti.
